Lets discuss how to find the right vacuum cleaner to clean your floors effectively and adequately. Upright vacuum cleaners are great options for home use for many reasons. Some of which are the following: They have potent motors giving stronger suction action for carpets. The vacuum cleaner will always be in front of you, which is preferred by some folks. Some units can handle hard to reach areas like stairs, spaces under bulky furniture, and other nooks and crannies outgo a flexible hose. Perfect for rooms with large floor areas, especially carpeted ones. It comes with useful attachments for more versatility and effective cleaning. Yes, these appliances can be bulky, but it is often more affordable than canister-type vacuum cleaners, making it the practical option for home use. Choosing one can be tricky, though, so here are some of my suggestions on what to look for: Ease of use The most important thing when looking for a vacuum cleaner is whether theyre easy to use or not. Look for a product that: Has an accessible on and off switch. Long power cord. If its retractable, its even better for more accessible storage and tidying up. It is lightweight, so you can lug it around easier. Some upright vacuums also have hoses for cleaning hard to reach areas. These hoses should be long enough so it can be easy to hold and control as well as provide ample reach. A long vacuum hose will also provide easy maneuvering, allowing you more ease in using it. Has a large dirt capacity, so you dont have to change bags or empty dirt bins every so often. This might mean a bigger unit, though, so if you dont have the space, you should also keep that detail in mind. Attachments Additional cleaning accessories come with upright vacuum cleaners to help you get the job done more effectively. The vacuum cleaner should have the following accessories to make it even more functional and convenient for use: Dusting brush Upholstery brush Crevice tool Pet hair removal brush Extension wand As not everything can be easily suctioned in by your vacuum cleaner, specialty brushes, tools, and vacuum heads are designed to serve various purposes to make your vacuuming a lot easier and effective. Make sure to look for them so you can get more function from your cleaning appliance. Dirt Chamber There are two popular types of dirt chambers for vacuum cleaners: Bagged vacuum cleaners make use of bags to store the dust youve suctioned by your appliance. Once the container is full, youll need to throw it out and replace it with a new one. The great thing about this option is the availability of allergy bags, making your vacuum a lot more ideal for those with sensitivities to dust and other airborne allergens. Bagless vacuum cleaners make use of plastic containers that store the dirt. When the chamber is filled, all you need to do is to remove the chamber and dump the dirt out. You are required to clean or replace filters regularly, though, so you can ensure the quality of your vacuums performance. Choosing whether to opt for a bagged or bagless vacuum cleaner is essential as it can affect the maintenance of your appliance. Choose one that you think will work out best for your home. The Budget Upright vacuum cleaners are more affordable than canister vacuums, so you can be sure to find a great product with a modest budget. Checkout our recommendations for inexpensive vacuums under $40, $50, $100 & $200 dollars. However, as these products can range from affordable to pricey in a flash, so your budget should also be a consideration when shopping for a canister vacuum cleaner. Yes. Most vacuum even offers an additional multi-surface tool so you can clean different types of floors, including hardwood more easily. When it comes to vacuuming any hardwood floor, you must take some extra care, like cleaning gently and calmly. This type of floor tends to get scratched and damaged very quickly, so it is always a great choice to go for vacuums that are gentle on surfaces. Remember that wood floors require special treatment, not the softest or the gentlest out there but you need to be careful to avoid common issues. Yet, wood surfaces are made with polyurethane finishes, which means they are slightly more resistant and reliable than other options. This, eventually, makes it easier to use a vacuum. The best vacuum for hardwood floors, however, must have a soft brush and provide enough vacuuming power to get dirt and fine debris from the deepest cracks on the floor. For this, a useful crevice tool and an oval brush would be perfect. And of course, canister, stick, and upright vacuums will always be more comfortable to use for this type of application.
