Beer Pong Pong, also known as Beirut, is an alcoholic game in which players throw a ping-pong ball on a table with the intention of throwing the ball into a cup of beer/water on the other side. Beer pong is an alcoholic game based on ping pong, which involves the use of paddle to hit a ping pong ball into obstacles on the opposite side. The origin of beer pong is generally credited to fraternity students at Dartmouth College. An alcoholic game played with ping pong balls and plastic cups. See our page on College Beer Pong for more information.
