This months transits have the potential to be some of the most electrifying yet.Venus begins a profound retrograde in Aries on the 1st, propelling us into a time of Fiery passions and emotions running high, forcing us to examine our relationships with ourselves and others with more intensity and purpose.Plus, as Mercury enters Aries on the 3rd, we wont really be able to escape the necessity for embracing that inner Fire. So by the time we reach the Lunar eclipse in Virgo on the 14th, well be well-prepared to set clear intentions for our real needs and expectations.Last but not least, Mercury will also go retrograde in Aries on the 15th, so if youre not ready by this point to reflect seriously on what ignites your soul, March will be pulling no punches to make sure it gets done. (And dont forget that Aries season itself takes off on the 20th!)Overwhelmed? Dont worry we have you covered.Lets turn to the Tarot for some succinct, helpful, and assuring guidance and insight on what to expect (with one Major Arcana and one Minor Arcana card each) on a more personal level.Ariesis finding change and transformation, although it isnt an easy transition.The Death card always prompts us to look inside, examine what is and isnt working anymore, and truly step into new horizons. You may be seeking new opportunities, especially as the 9 of Pentacles reversed creates tension with your finances and career.However, in order to make the strides that you seek, the changes must first come from within.How have you been holding yourself back, and what skin will you need to shed in order to be the version of yourself that can claim the life you know you deserve?Taurus is seeking balance in tough times.Temperance is the steady alchemist, a patient figure of spiritual finesse and strength. Youre called to embody this archetype right now despite the Knight of Wands reversed hinting that this month is consistently destabilizing your sense of ambition and willpower.You may feel restless, uncertain, and often very scattered in your desires.But March is an opportunity to take special notice of this, recenter, and intentionally ground yourself in the face of this instability.Dont miss out: You Pulled the Temperance Tarot Card Now What?Gemini is jumping head-first into new things, anxieties cast to the wayside.The Fool brings you new beginnings and fresh starts. This month is a time of expansion, open hearts and arms, and seeing life from a new perspective, ready or not.This comes from an authentic release of everything that had been holding you back before, especially fears and self-doubts about what your capabilities really were. The 9 of Swords reversed shows you making a conscious effort to get out of your own way.With some effort and intentionality, March has the potential to be a powerful month for Gemini to make some strong changes.Cancer is intentionally rethinking their next steps.The Hanged Man prompts you to find pause and balance, especially as the Knight of Swords reversed complicates your thoughts and makes your perspective feel suddenly disoriented and foggy.You may want to restlessly make firm decisions or speak up just to feel heard, but ultimately this month is about recentering into self-protection, security, and remembering your core values.Outwardly, this may seem like an uneventful time for most Cancerians. But internally, youll be busier than ever.Leo has found what truly makes them shine this month!The Sun and the 2 of Cups are both beams of positivity, good feelings, and intense emotional connections. Youre feeling seen, understood, and safer in your relationships and friendships than you were before.This set of cards encourages you to prioritize those that you care about, as well as pay attention to how your heart responds to different people.Just know that your intuition and your heart are both speaking prominently right now to show you whats best for you and what and who really supports you.Virgo, you must create and innovate without the added pressure of perfectionism.We all know and love the Virgo tendency to get everything right, as you tend to be one of the most productive and reliable signs of the zodiac as a result.However, The Magician and the 5 of Cups reversed hint that youre quite busy this month experimenting with new things (projects, connections, hobbies, and work) and mistakes are inevitable.As a result, youll need to give yourself plenty of grace to move on and laugh about these things, rather than getting caught up in the details and disappointments.Libra, the balance you seek will not come from overanalysis.Although Justice reversed can be a particularly difficult card to resolve for Libras (who consistently strive for and seek balance and fairness), the 9 of Pentacles reversed warns against overanalyzing your next steps and plans in response to this.You may not have everything figured out right now, and thats okay. Some things cant be planned for, and especially with work and career, youre encouraged to loosen the reins a bit and allow things to play out naturally.This isnt an easy task for Libra, but its a necessary one for the month ahead.Scorpio, youre a powerful creator, but everyone needs help now and again.The Empress reversed complicates your relationship with your intuition, your creative senses, and your self-confidence surrounding your ability to forge an abundant life for yourself.Thankfully, the 3 of Pentacles hints that you have plenty of willing support should you choose to take up others on their offers.Sometimes, solving everything on your own isnt the answer, and allowing others to contribute to your work and livelihood can actually be more rewarding, insightful, and inspirational than ever expected.Sagittarius, mysteries are becoming unveiled and there may be very little time to process them.The Moon reversed suggests that truths are coming to light and the fog that may have sat over points of confusion is now lifting.However, the 7 of Wands also points out that Sagittarius is quite busy this month, with your hands tied up in all sorts of personal endeavors, troubles, and complex social situations.Act now and process later. You will have time to understand and ask big questions about what everything means later, but right now is a time to step up to the plate and move decisively.Capricorn has a wildly abundant and success-filled month ahead should you be ready to accept it all!The 9 of Cups and The Chariot are both majorly positive omens of fulfilled desires, achieving your goals, and confidently claiming the life that you know youve always deserved.However, it does all require some self-awareness, true confidence, and the readiness to say yes to new things that come your way. In other words, dont get suddenly shy in the face of the success you have worked so hard to achieve.Otherwise, there is plenty for Capricorn to enjoy this March. Are you ready to seize it for yourself?Aquarius is still finding the fate that works for them, and doesnt seem to always a very glamorous journey.The Wheel of Fortune suggests that this month is about not falling back into the hands of destiny, truly falling into the Universes command, and knowing that you arent required to know everything all of the time.The 8 of Swords will be causing you some trouble spotlighting all the ways in which you still feel restrained and held back by yourself and the world around you. But youre wrestling with it hands-on right now and attempting to focus on rekindling a healthy relationship with the unknown, and the effort is really whats going to count the most.Pisces, good things are just around the corner even if it has been a long time coming anyway.The World promises that this month offers some finality, closure, and full circle moments to previously initiated efforts and plans. Youre aligned with the right path, so to speak, and this month will help affirm that reality back to you.The Knight of Pentacles also shows you mostly focused on your daily routines and responsibilities nonetheless, so its not as if youre deviating too far from the norm here. In other words, although life is headed in a solid direction, nothing about any of this should be all too surprising or out of the way.Life can be unpredictable and full of unexpected changes, but the wisdom of your Tarotscope can give you a bit of an extra leg up on that front!However, as we reviewed in the beginning, there are still also a variety of other things happening beneath the surface astrologically, energetically, and beyond.Here are a few things to know about whats to come:Take the Quiz: Which Tarot Card Are You? This week is primed to be one of the rockiest yet.Venus retrograde will enter Pisces on the 27th, and Mercury retrograde will enter Pisces on the 29th. Plus, with a Solar eclipse in Aries also taking place on the 29th, were in for quite a ride.All of this energy is highly potent, emotional, and primed to connect us to some of our most intense feelings, ideas, and deep desires. If youve been ignoring your instincts or needs, youll find them all bubbling to the surface now.With so much underway, its understandable to feel confused, alarmed, or anxious about whats to come. Thats why we check in with the Tarot for a deeper understanding of what we need to know before we head into the murky waters!Aries, you know there is something you must leave behind, but it isnt easy.The 8 of Swords reversed suggests that youve got something lingering around still a relationship, an old habit, a pursuit or goal from the past, etcl could be any number of things (perhaps even a few), but what matters most is that youre dragging your feet on moving on to being the version of yourself that you know youre meant to be.Just remember that releasing what exists in the past and present is often essential to making your way into the future you truly seek.Taurus, you cant force what isnt there.The Ace of Wands reversed is a surefire sign that initiating anything new or sudden this week may not end up in your favor.You may want to run with impulse and the excitement of spontaneity, but rushing into anything right now may lead to immediate burnout or regrettable mistakes.Now isnt the time for anything new, Taurus, but that doesnt mean you cant take note of your best ideas for later.Gemini, dont go against the inevitable grain.There isnt much use in fighting fate, although the Wheel of Fortune reversed hints that youre quite tempted to.Right now, not much is in your control, and you may feel like your life is happening to you rather than something youre steering yourself. As uncomfortable as this may be, its essential to trust the process and not make any rash decisions.There may be a method to the Universes madness that you have yet to see.Cancer, this week is all about prioritizing your happiness.With The Sun on the table, youre more aligned with your authentic self than you have been in a while. Now is all about what brings you authentic joy and radiance, finding your inner power, and trusting that light to guide the way.You may not have all of the answers right now, nor know exactly what to do next, but now is about feeling and tuning in with what makes your heart happy.In other words, sit with your true heart and desires this week, take some deep breaths, and dont rush into anything major just be as you are.Leo, your heart has something to say.The Queen of Cups points to your emotional intelligence, intuitive prowess, and strengths that generally are drawn from within.Now is the time to focus on and hone these, as these instincts are illuminated and shining brightly in these strange times. Others may also be relying on you right now for emotional guidance and expertise. In other words, trust that you know and feel the right things to say and do. Leo Virgo is stuck in place although you dont have to be.The 8 of Swords indicates youre feeling quite constrained and restricted, although some of these restraints are self-imposed.Its not easy to look inward and recognize when you might be holding yourself back, but high standards, perfectionism, and insecurities about getting it wrong may be preventing you from making decisions and putting your best foot forward.Learn More: Everything You Need to Know About Swords in TarotLibra, your intuition has something to say, but it may be hard to hear it out.The High Priestess is a card of insight, deep inner wisdom, and intuitive expertise. With this card in a reversed position, you may be struggling to connect with it properly, however.Following and trusting your intuition may be particularly difficult this week, although youre aware that its necessary in tough times such as these.When faced with this kind of inner fog, its important to take a beat and let yourself breathe, meditate, and not push or force yourself. Let it naturally come back to you, Libra.Scorpio, its time to pull from your inner strengths.With the literal Strength card on the table, you have an abundance of qualities that are essential to trust in and draw from at this time inner peace, willpower, and emotional fortitude.Life itself may not be easy, and drawing from these strengths wont be zero effort either, but the Tarot wants you to know that you have plenty of assets on your side.Dive Deeper: You Pulled the Strength Tarot Card Now What?Sagittarius is struggling to see their own inner light lately.The Hermit reversed can create fog of the mental and emotional sort. You may be searching for answers but your inner compass isnt showing you the right direction.However, know that there isnt always a right or wrong answer. Sometimes, there is just the journey and how it naturally unfolds regardless of the meaning we parse from it.You may not know how or why things are happening the way they are, or also what to do next, but you arent always expected to have it all figured out. Sagittarius.Capricorn, dream big its good for you!The 9 of Cups reversed hints that you may be holding yourself back from going after what you truly desire.Although it can be scary to trust your truest dreams and set larger expectations for yourself, you know in your heart of hearts what your true potential is and what will or wont satisfy you at the end of the day.Ask yourself: will future you regret trying or not trying more? You never know what you might be able to hold until you fully open your hands.Aquarius wont find the productive momentum they seek just yet.The 7 of Pentacles reversed indicates that youre hoping to make headway with practical planning, especially in work and career.However, this planning and contemplating may actually be leading you to stagnation and frustration. Are you truly peeling over the details because its productive, or are you doing it from a place of anxiety, insecurity, or procrastination?Just be honest about why and how youre devoting energy to your work this week. Aquarius.Pisces, you deserve big and beautiful things.This week is all about remembering and trusting that, as the 9 of Pentacles reversed suggests that youre struggling to grant yourself the self-care and indulgence you may truly need.You deserve a break, whether that is some quality me time or loosening the purse strings just a bit so that you can enjoy the fruits of your labor.You are worthy of abundance, rest, and care. Start with that affirmation this week. Pisces, and then move on to granting yourself some of those material rewards too!Life can (and will) always surprise us, but some of these surprises are easier to navigate with a little help from the Tarot.However, there is more than one way you can prep for strange times ahead. But instead of rushing in, let Temperance guide your pace. You dont have to choose between momentum and balance. You can have both!With the Full Moon in your sign, this is a powerful moment of clarity. Look at your journey so far, and use that insight to move forward with purpose and intention.Tarot Cards: The Devil & 6 of PentaclesCapricorn, this month asks you to take a closer look at whats holding you back, and how you can start letting go. The Devil card points to habits or attachments that may be draining your energy or limiting your growth.The 6 of Pentacles brings balance to that message, reminding you that healthy relationshipsfinancial or emotionalare built on mutual give and take. Its time to release what feels one-sided or controlling and create more space for fairness and trust.With Saturn now in Aries, youre being asked to lead from a place of clarity, honesty, and self-respect. Consider how you can build stronger boundaries and make sure what you give is matched with what you receive.Tarot Cards: The Star & 2 of WandsAquarius, this month is about reconnecting with your sense of direction.The Star brings hope and reminds you that youre on the right patheven if things still feel uncertain. Its a gentle nudge to trust yourself and dream bigger.The 2 of Wands builds on that energy, asking you to start turning those dreams into a real plan. Youre at a crossroads, and its time to think about whats next. Look ahead with confidence;you dont need all the answers, just the courage to explore.With Jupiter moving into Cancer, your focus shifts to everyday habits and wellness. Strengthen your routines so they support the future youre building. You are a Star too, Aquarius!Tarot Cards: The Moon & 8 of CupsPisces, this month invites you to trust your intuition and release what no longer feels right.The Moon Tarot card encourages you to look within and pay attention to what your inner voice is telling you. Things may feel unclear at times, so move slowly and stay grounded in what feels true.The 8 of Cups signals a moment of quiet courage. You may be ready to leave behind something that once felt important but has lost its meaning. This is a chance to move toward deeper emotional fulfillment and peace.The New Moon in Cancer brings a fresh start for creativity, healing, and self-expression. Set intentions that reflect who you are now, not who you used to be.Your Tarotscope provides a snapshot of the energies influencing your month. To deepen your connection with these insights, try these activities:Reflect: Write down any thoughts or feelings that come up as you read your Tarotscope. Noticing what stands out can help you understand what matters most right now.Meditate: Take a few quiet minutes to sit with what the cards are saying. Let the messages settle in before deciding what they mean for you.Act: Use what youve learned to make small, intentional choices. Even one step in the right direction can help you feel more aligned and clear.Remember, the Tarot is a tool for empowerment. Use it to navigate June 2025 to make the most of the month ahead!Have more questions? Try a Yes/No Tarot spread to get immediate answers right now!The Tarot is a tool that has been around for hundreds of years and is used for divination. It allows one to connect to the spiritual side of themselves to see how to heal on a deep psychological level so one can manifest more positive life experiences. Traditionally it was used to foresee future events, but with the advances in studies on metaphysics, many people now find it most empowering to use it to help them step into their life calling and figure out how to navigate their emotions to create the life they desire most in their heart.The Tarot speaks in symbols and archetypes, the languages of the subconscious, the intuition, and the creative mind. It allows us to bypass the analytical mind in order to access higher spiritual knowledge which comes through in impressions we get while reflecting on the cards. Tarot can be consulted for both small and large life questions from anything as simple as what outfit to wear to the bigger and deeper philosophical questions such as what to spend our life doing and who to spend it with.One of the starting points in learning this tool of divination is to understand the symbols. Its actually not hard to learn when you start to break down the Tarot into categories. Today we are looking at the 4 categories, called suits, of the Minor Arcana.Tarot Suits in the Minor ArcanaWhen learning the Tarot, its essential to understand the symbolic meaning of the 4 Tarot card suits. There are 78 Tarot cards total in a deck which is further divided into the two subsections called the Major and Minor Arcana. There are more cards in the Minor Arcana, which is divided into the four suits of swords, cups, wands, and pentacles.The Minor Arcana deals with the day to day interactions we encounter. It may have to do with small decisions or the habits we develop between the more major events of life. It has to do with the way the subconscious mind guides our daily actions and thoughts.In short, it helps us see why we may or may not be enjoying ourselves and how to improve upon our experience. Once you know the meaning of the suits you can see how it links to the number of the card or the court member pulled. Each of the Minor Arcana numbers indicates something specific. Generally, odd numbers represent conflict while odd numbers represent harmony. There are layers of meaning in each card and the card reader is able to ascertain which meaning resonates. Tarot Suits & the ElementsCups correspond to the element of Water. Cards: How To Interpret The Court Cards in TarotThis week brings us one of the busiest times of the year, full of hustle, bustle, cheer, and holiday spirit.Whether you are celebrating Christmas, the Winter Solstice, or Yule or spreading cheer in your own unique way, it never hurts to add a little bit of spiritual guidance and illumination to your holiday toolkit.For this weeks Tarotscope, were checking in with the Tarot to see what information and advice the cards have in store for us with the festivities in mind.Plus, as we make way for the New Year, aligning ourselves with the voice of the Universe has never been more pertinent than now!Aries, love is on the way and popping up in multiple forms!The Ace of Cups sheds a positive light on your relationships with others, your creative projects and ideas, and intuitive or spiritual inclinations.Love is coming from all around you and within you, blossoming into positive feelings, new opportunities, and fresh starts.Keep your heart open this week, not just for the planned or expected festivities but also for all the unexpected ways that life can bring you blessings.Taurus, this weeks success will involve you letting go of past baggage and anxieties.In other words, the 9 of Swords reversed highlights the necessity of focusing on the shadowy, darker parts of your mind.This includes anything that has been nagging at you, telling you that youre not good enough, or bogging down the potential for enjoying yourself (especially in such a cheerful time).Youre called to honestly check in with yourself, identify those thought patterns uprnt, hold space for the difficult parts of them and slowly work to proactively release them all.Gemini has pulled The Empress this week, a lovely card full of abundant potential.This energy offers creative, expressive instincts for your week ahead, noting the potential of your artistic power and your ability to lead by facilitating comfortable spaces for others (rather than necessarily calling the shots overtly).Youre leading with love, identifying the beauty and positivity that can exist in the world around you, expanding upon it and helping others see it within themselves, too.Cancer is embracing tradition and order this week.The Hierophant is usually an orderly card that brings structure and stability to the table. Routines, past traditions, and existing methods of living come into full view here.This is actually a lovely card for safe, comfortable holiday traditions, a good omen for uplifting celebrations.Its also a positive sign for anyone hoping to conduct rituals for the Winter Solstice season or even just facilitate gatherings for festivities.Leo, youre doing it all on your own, but it is necessary to do so!The 7 of Wands hints that you may be tempted to handle your responsibilities fully independently. This week, you have a lot to do and plenty of people to see, as is totally understandable for a busy season like this.However, your independence wont be sacrificed by asking for some help.Yes, youre a brave, strong spirit. And youre allowed to share some of the responsibility with others, reach out for assistance, and allow others into your space to help things move smoothly. Leo, Virgo, now is the time to move boldly, speak loudly and proudly, and project the confidence that we know you have within!The Ace of Swords is a strong card for powerful, enlightening conversations or even one that breaks the ice with a good joke and makes way for a new connection.Its a great time for socializing, investing in new ideas, and following your instincts.This week is all about investing in the impulses and innovations that make you uniquely great and make you stand out from a crowd! Shine bright, Virgo.Libra, the world is slowing down alongside you as you slow down for the holidays.Although the Ace of Pentacles can usually be a welcomed sign of additional prosperity, new beginnings, and career or financial blessings, the reversal puts a halt on these endeavors for now.That doesnt mean that youre running into chaos or catastrophe. You just arent meant to make drastic changes or see anything out of the ordinary entering your life for now.Enjoy what you have and give thanks for the existing abundance in your life, and patience and fresh starts will find you more easily down the line.The imagination is a powerful thing, especially for Scorpio.With the Page of Cups at your side, youre creatively and intuitively whipping up a storm this week. This card is a positive omen for artistic and spiritual pursuits, lighthearted and open-hearted attitude and spirit.Crack open a journal, pull up an artistic hobby, or conduct your favorite holiday-themed ritual.Whatever you may do in order to connect with this softer, creative side of yourself, now is the time to do so!Sagittarius, youve always been the kind of person to do things in your own way, no matter the time, circumstance, or popularity of your ideas.This week, Death expresses that the holidays arent slowing down your desire for personal change, transformation, and taking your life into your own hands.In other words, this is a time of challenging old ways of doing things, letting go of anything still holding you back, and especially inauthentic perspectives, ideologies, or goals that may have been occupying your time previously.Capricorn, this week, youre called to focus on one word: relationships.Yes, the 2 of Cups centers the relationships you have with others. Right now is in important time for tuning into how your heart feels, leading with emotion, and allowing those you care about into your heartspace.For those seeking romance, this can be an ideal time to deepen existing connections. But in general, consider this to be prime time for reaching out to people around you, romantic or not.When you allow others in like this, you may find that unexpected blessings enter into your life just as openly!Aquarius may find this week to be particularly taxing on their hearts.The Queen of Cups reversed hints at emotional frustration, especially relating to a lack of control over your feelings as if they are taking over you entirely, no longer something you can channel yourself.The holiday season can be murky for some of us, digging up old feelings and opening up our hearts in a more vulnerable way to emotions that we werent expecting to feel. Currently, this may be the case for you, Aquarius.Its essential to take care of yourself as if you were undergoing emotional difficulty, even if you dont logically feel like something is wrong.Pisces, you want love to find you, but it seems like it gets more complicated the more that you chase it.The Lovers reversed hints that this week is an especially precarious time for handling your relationships with others. If you are at a crossroads or find yourself questioning your commitments, know that this isnt the time to announce a final verdict.This chaotic, messy, and emotionally intensive energy suggests that youd benefit more from alone time, meditation, and ample rest.It doesnt suggest that you should rush into any major decisions or evaluate things based on emotion just yet, so hold onto that reminder, Pisces.Festivities around the corner and immediately up ahead can trigger all sorts of feelings for many folks for a variety of reasons.The holidays can be an especially emotionally sensitive time, whether its simple seasonal jitters or full-blown anxiety from all of the plans stacking onto your plate.To lighten the load, weve handled the spiritual, astrological, and heart-centered aspects of your weekly planning.
