The Editors of International Publications, Ltd. Classical piano music is presented in a variety of musical genres. While most genres are remarkably different, many people are unable to identify any kind given due to lack of terminology. Here, we hope to distinguish the most common genres of classical piano music and provide recommendations of remarkable works. A concert is a work composed of an orchestral ensemble and a smaller or solo group. In a piano concert, the piano is the solo instrument. Throughout the work, the contrast between soloist and ensemble is maintained. Although not exclusively, the concert is composed of three contrasting movements (fast-low-fast.) Noteworthy piano concerts are Chopin - Piano Concerto No. 1 and Mozart - Piano Concerto No. 1. The sonata term has many connotations, but the most common use of the term refers to a form of music originally from the classical period. The sonata usually consists of three to four movements with the first movement almost always in sonata form. Therefore, a piano sonata is an unpaved opera for solo piano usually in three to four movements. The famous piano sonatas are Chopin - Piano Sonata n. 3 and Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata. A piano threesome is one of the most common forms of chamber music, consisting of a piano and two other instruments. The most common instrumentation is piano, violin and cello. Among the remarkable works are Brahms - Piano Trio n. 1, Op. 8 and Schubert's Piano Trio n. 2 in E flat major, D. 929 (Op. 100.) The most common form of the piano quintet, a piano with four other instruments, is a piano with a string quartet. The most important works include the trout of Schubert Piano in a major. read the analysis of the trout quintet. Watch a video of the trota quintet. solo piano works come in many different genres including etude, prelude, prelude, Nocturne, mazurka, waltz, ballade, and joke. Some of the greatest solo piano composers include Scriabin, Chopin, Liszt and Rachmaninoff. An etude (French for study) is a piece of music designed to form a performer a particular skill on a solo instrument. A prelude is a short piece of music with little or no particular internal form, playing almost unexpected. A polonaise is a slow dance of Polish origin normally in 3/4 of time. A nocturne (French for Night) is a piece of music inspired by the night. A mazurka is a Polish folk dance in three feet. A waltz is another form of music related to a popular dance in 3/4 time. A ballad is a unique large-scale movement work with dramatic and narrative qualities. A joke was usually a name given to a movement of a larger body of work, although in later classical music periods, composers took the joke and did it in his work. Scherzos are usually light, but Chopin's are much darker and dramatic. Learn all about playing piano, from storing notes to navigating keys, with these tutorials.
