Each game page contains a Steam chart and monthly breakdown. Steam charts show the number of players for each day / hour. Hourly data is only available for the last 7 days. If there's enough data, you can change the zoom of the chart to: 24 hours, 1 week, 1 month, 3 months, 6 months, 1 year, 3 year and the entire period. You can also set the custom range using the fields in the upper right corner of the chart or using the timeline below. For convenience, positive gains and negative gains are colored differently in the monthly breakdown table. All data is powered by Steam. Not affiliated with Valve in any way. All trademarks are property of their respective owners in the US and other countries. Our goal is to provide unique insight into gaming trends. steamcharts.com In some cases, the table and chart may display different data because the time in the table is in UTC and the time in the chart is in your time zone. player count seems to know no bounds. Despite being released more than a decade ago, the landmark Valve FPS game previously set a new record for concurrent Steam users on February 11. It seemed unbeatable, but if ten years of CS:GO battles have taught us anything, it's that nothing is impossible you might be up against five people, with the bomb already ticking down, but you can still grab a victory out of the fire. Likewise, CS:GO players have once again beaten their own record, with the multiplayer shooter also remaining atop the Steam chart for current users. Previously, the record number of concurrent CS:GO users stood at 1,301,348. That was smashed on February 11, when 1,320,219 players logged on to blast, backstab, and blow up one another across Dust 2, Mirage, and the rest of Counter-Strike's iconic maps. But now, only eight days later, CS:GO players have once again excelled themselves, setting a new all-time peak of 1,324,800 users on February 19. That means the previous record has been obliterated by more than 4,000. Surely this one will stand for a little longer, but then again, looking at figures from CS:GO, it could be that the online shooter is already on track for a new high. As of this writing, CS:GO has almost 760,000 active players, placing it firmly at the top of Steam's current user chart, and miles ahead of second-place Dota 2, with 340,000 concurrent players, and Apex Legends with just over 300,000. The surge in popularity for Global Offensive comes as controversial set of CS:GO skins, the "Doodle Lore", is removed from sale after accusations that it
