

Continue

Lego masters 2024

FOX is bringing back its popular LEGO series with a new holiday special called "LEGO Masters: Celebrity Holiday Bricktacular". This year's event will feature Sophia Bush, Eric McCormack, Holly Robinson Peete and Lil Rel Howery as guest stars alongside Will Arnett as the host. The judges for this season are Amy Corbett and Jamie Berard. The four-episode special will have a mix of celebrity guests teaming up with past contestants to complete holiday-themed challenges, all in aid of charity. In the end, one team will be crowned champion and take home the coveted trophy. The LEGO Masters series is based on a British show and has been a hit on FOX, featuring teams of two competing against each other to build incredible creations using an unlimited supply of LEGO bricks. Follow us on social media for the latest Disney+ news! Krystle (36) from Texas and Michelle (44) are teaming up to represent America in this season's LEGO Masters intercontinental competition. Both women have a background in LEGO building, with Krystle competing in Season 1 and Michelle in Season 2 of the USA version. They're known for their skills as a cosplayer, video game designer, web host, and YouTuber (Krystle), and as a creative artist, wife, and mother of four (Michelle). The competition will feature international teams from Denmark, Germany, France, and the USA, battling it out for $100,000 and the title of best LEGO building team. Hamish Blake and Brickman are back as hosts, with a special guest Sophie Monk joining them this season. Catch up on every episode for free on 9Now! The upcoming season of LEGO Masters Australia promises to be just as exciting as its predecessors. Contestants can expect a special power that keeps them safe from elimination for the next challenge, along with incredible advantages. Host Ryan "Brickman" McNaught will mentor and guide the contestants to create awe-inspiring builds. Resident host Hamish Blake will bring his comedic touch to the show, along with pushing boundaries of comedy and costumes. The season will also feature special guest appearances from Australian radio presenter Michael "Wippa" Wipfli and Jordy Hocking from Lego Masters Season 1. The challenges are expected to be more demanding than ever, ranging from LEGO go kart racing to a spectacular window display challenge celebrating 85 years of Batman. The Grand Finale will be the ultimate building spectacular, where the winner takes home the coveted title and $100,000 prize money. Previous winners Scott and Owen took the LEGO Masters Grand Masters crown last year, beating out two fan-favourite teams in the process. This season promises to be just as competitive, with four brand-new Aussie teams facing off against international teams from Denmark, Germany, France, and the USA. Channel Nine announces the return of LEGO Masters Australia vs The World with hosts Hamish Blake and Ryan 'Brickman' McNaught, alongside guest judges Sophie Monk, Michael 'Wippa' Wipfli, and Jordy Hocking. Contestants Eric Milne and Ben Tusar from NSW, Australia, along with Charlie Dineen and Haley Cobb from VIC & QLD, Shane and Dianne Horvath from WA, Emilio Capperella and Sam Hardy from VIC, Peter Jensen and Isa Thystrup from Denmark, Camille and Caroline Perrotte from France, Annalena Rohr and Felix Geisbush from Germany, and Michelle Brooks and Krystle Starr from the USA will compete. Stressin' over LEGO bricks don't gotta be a problem - just jump some jacks and get those ideas flowin' again! Don't compare yer builds to others, 'specially on social media - focus on makin' somethin' special that's all you. M: I learned how funny Hamish is, and that we're capable of doin' big things. We even got to fly to Australia for a LEGO competition! KZ: How did your build styles complement each other? K: Our secret was mergin' our styles together - Michelle's clean look mixed with my speedy messiness created somethin' special. By workin' together, we made fast and detailed builds that helped us win the comp! Given article text here I had an amazing adventure in Sydney Harbour as I sailed on tall ships. The highlight was climbing to the crow's nest and feeling like a real pirate. It's a day that will stay with me forever. M: I miss Australia, it's a beautiful country with friendly people. I'd love to take my family back for a visit soon. If you want to learn more about LEGO Masters, check out our interview with Krystle and Michelle in the July 2024 issue of Epic Explorers or read our latest article on Ryan 'Brickman' McNaught's experience competing on the show. We also have tons of fun content featuring Brickman, including interviews with past winners, tutorials, videos, and more. Don't miss all our LEGO Masters news! For everything LEGO, visit our page. Will Arnett is the host and executive producer of LEGO Masters, known for his work in TV shows like Arrested Development and BoJack Horseman. He took on the role after playing Batman and Bruce Wayne in The LEGO Movie series. Jamie Berard, a Senior Design Manager at The LEGO Company, is one of the judges alongside Amy Corbett, who leads the development of new product lines. Twelve teams compete for the title of LEGO Master, with the winning team receiving the trophy, $100,000, and their model on display in LEGOLAND Florida. You can watch LEGO Masters on FOXNOW and Hulu, as well as catch the "Celebrity Holiday Bricktacular" episode on December 17th. Looking forward to watching the celebrity-studded "Lego Masters: Celebrity Holiday Bricktacular" episode on Fox, which will air on December 17, 2024. The special promises a fun mix of creativity and competition as teams of two team up with famous guests to build impressive Lego creations.