This article explains how to change your desktop wallpaper across various operating systems, including Windows, Mac, Linux, iOS, and Android. Changing the Windows desktop background is easy. There are two methods, depending on whether the image is currently open. With the photo open, right-click or tap-and-hold it, and then choose Set as > Background, or in older versions of Windows, Set as > Set as background or Set as desktop background. Alternatively, perform a similar step in File Explorer; right-click the image and select Set as desktop background. Another method that works in Windows is through the Personalize option from the desktop: In Windows 11/10, right-click the desktop and select Personalize. In Windows 8/7/Vista, access the Control Panel's Personalization applet. Select Picture from the menu in the Background section. Use an image from Microsoft or select Browse photos or Browse to find a different picture on your hard drive. Optionally fit, stretch, or fill the screen with the photo, or even tile, center, or span it across several screens. Some versions of Windows offer additional options, like a slideshow that automatically changes the wallpaper after a period of time, which comes in handy if you don't want to settle with just one background. Windows isn't the only operating system that can have its desktop wallpaper customized. Below are some instructions for other devices. Right-click a photo and choose Set Desktop Picture. Use pictures from online or ones saved to your computer. Another way to change the desktop image on a Mac is to right-click a blank area on the desktop and choose the Change Desktop Background option. If you use this method, choose some other wallpapers and have all of them cycled on a schedule. You can also use System Preferences to change the wallpaper. If you're using a Linux OS, such as Ubuntu, right-click the photo saved to your computer and pick the Set as Wallpaper option from the menu. Another option is to right-click the desktop and go to Change Desktop Background. Use this Android guide for changing your wallpaper, or check out this guide for picking a new iPhone wallpaper, or this one for setting your iPad's background. Changing Android wallpaper from the Photos app. Images you take with a phone or tablet will fit perfectly as the wallpaper image, but you can also visit sites that offer perfectly-sized images for your device. Unsplash is a great option for both platforms; see their iPhone wallpapers and Android wallpapers. Thanks for letting us know! Tell us why! Its purpose is to animate your desktop and make you enjoy working on your PC even more. The program has a clean, user-friendly interface that provides all the required information and steps that users must take to either use their personal videos as wallpapers or download other animations. The app even recommends a few trustworthy sites that provide many backgrounds, live wallpapers, and even 3D wallpapers and animations. Desktop Live Wallpapers comes with interesting functions The program supports multiple monitors at different DPIs. In addition, the app stops playing videos when you're working in other applications, so it won't consume much of your system's resources when you're not viewing your desktop. Desktop Live Wallpapers allows you to play your own videos as animated backgrounds. But, you are limited to only a few video formats. That's where the Pro version of the app comes in. It offers support for additional video formats, plus a new set of settings. The program consumes a lot of resources when in use This application for animated backgrounds consumes a lot of the CPU and RAM, in comparison with other similar programs. Even when idle, it still eats resources. Accordingly, if your system is not very performant, then you won't be able to enjoy more demanding live wallpapers or video backgrounds. Also, the app requires at least 1 GB of video memory to work without lagging. Keep in touch with the developers This app has its ups and downs, that's for sure. But, overall, this is a nice program that animates your screen with live wallpapers. The best thing is that you can contact the developers if you face any issues, or you want to offer your feedback regarding Desktop Live Wallpapers.
