Concerto for Bangla Desh on the next day the world was talking about it. anniversary of the Concerto for Bangladesh, Deeply moved by the situation of more than eight million refugees who came to India during the fight of Freedon Bangladesh, Ravi Shankar wanted to help in any way he could. He approached his dear friend George to help him raise money for this cause. This humanitarian concern by Ravi Shankar sowed the seeds of the concept for the concert for Bangladesh. With the help of George Harrison this concert became the first effort "magnus in raising funds to pave the way for many others to do charity concerts. The concert was held at Madison Square Garden in New York, and played near 40.000 people, raising US $243.000 overnight to a fund administered by UNICEF. Since then, the profits from the film sales and the son track Now they have contributed more than US$17000 to UNICEF, which distributed the funds to Bangladesh, as well as other trouble points around the world. © The foundation organizes Mr. C.M.
