Official | ICE protects America through criminal investigations and by enforcing immigration law to preserve national security and public safety. Created in 2003 through a merger of the investigative and interior enforcement elements of the U.S. Customs Service and the Immigration and Naturalization Service, ICE now has more than 20,000 law enforcement and support personnel in more than 400 offices in the United States and around the world. ICE's broad mission includes counterterrorism, counterproliferation, counternarcotics, immigration law enforcement within the interior, and investigating crimes ranging from customs fraud to human trafficking and child exploitation. Enforcement and Removal Operations (ERO) enforces immigration law in the U.S. interior, detains removable noncitizens and provides ICE's detained population with healthcare. Arresting and removing noncitizens who threaten public safety and national security - including known or suspected terrorists, gang members, and those who have committed egregious human rights violations or war crimes - are among ERO's most important missions. Homeland Security Investigations (HSI) identifies and builds criminal cases against transnational criminal organizations, terrorist networks and other criminal elements that threaten the United States. It investigates and prosecutes human trafficking, child exploitation, cybercrime, financial crime and a variety of other crimes of exploitation. The directorate's expert special agents also investigate intellectual property crime, trade fraud and export violations. Visit HSI.gov to learn more about HSI. ICE's Office of the Principal Legal Advisor is the largest legal program in DHS, representing the U.S. in hearings before the Justice Department's Executive Office for Immigration Review and prosecuting human rights violator and national security cases. Privacy: You can support your loved ones at Jackson Parish Correctional on InmateAid, if you have any immediate questions contact the facility directly at 318-259-8799. When someone you care about gets locked up, it's tough to figure out all the ins and outs of jail life. From sending mail to visiting, there are a lot of things to sort out. And getting info about the arrest? Not always easy. That's where this webpage comes in handy. It's here to help you get a handle on how things work here so that you can stay connected and support your loved one behind bars. The Jackson Parish Correctional is a detention center located at 327 Industrial Dr Jonesboro, LA which is operated locally by the Jackson Parish Sheriff's Office and holds inmates awaiting trial or sentencing or both. Most of the sentenced inmates are here for less than two years. Jackson Parish accepts inmates from surrounding towns, Jonesboro Police Department, and the US Marshal's Service. New detainees arrive at the jail regularly, with some being released on bail, placed under pretrial services caseloads, supervised by probation agencies, or released on recognizance with a court appearance agreement. Those who are not released await their court appearances at the jail, receiving accommodations including bedding and meals. You can see all the arrest records for Louisiana here. The Jackson Parish Correctional Center operates under the leadership of Sheriff Andy Brown and can house up to 1,252 individuals. The facility serves both offenders from the parish and Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) detainees. Focused on rehabilitation and successful reintegration into society, the center offers a range of evidence-based and innovative programs designed to address various aspects of offender behavior and development. Individuals unable to post bail within the first 24 hours must appear before a judge, where charges are formally presented, and bond is set. Upon arrival, detainees undergo intake procedures, including property inventory, medical screening, and booking. They are then assigned housing based on the classification of their charges, whether felony or misdemeanor, ensuring effective management and security. Good behavior may lead to lower classifications and additional privileges, while infractions result in stricter classifications and fewer liberties. Inmates serving as trustees assist with facility tasks such as food preparation, laundry, and commissary, earning minimal compensation or sentence reductions for their efforts. The facility is designed with "pods," which include individual cells, a common area with sturdy tables and seats, and access to an enclosed outdoor recreation space. Inmates spend designated times in their cells and communal areas, engaging in activities such as reading, playing games, or watching television. Movement beyond the pod, including visits to the commissary, library, or recreation area, is conducted under constant supervision by unarmed correctional officers. The jail environment is generally less stressful than that of a state prison, as sentences are typically shorter. The Parish Jail offers a phone program for outgoing calls only. While collect calls can be costly, families may set up prepaid accounts through third-party services, which often include additional fees. You might qualify for discounts on inmate calls, especially if the communication with your inmate is frequent. All calls are recorded, so discussing sensitive legal matters is discouraged. Inmates may also receive books and magazines directly from publishers to prevent contraband, and personal letters or selfies can be sent through an app starting at $8.00. Weekly commissary services allow inmates to order essentials, with increased spending limits on holidays. Indigent inmates are provided with basic hygiene items, stamps, and writing materials at no cost. Select inmates may participate in community service programs, contributing valuable labor while developing job skills and accountability. These opportunities are reserved for individuals demonstrating good behavior and cooperation with facility staff. Participation in such programs not only benefits the community but can also lead to sentence reductions, encouraging inmates to maintain positive conduct during their incarceration. Key rehabilitation initiatives include Accountability Planning, which develops individualized supervision strategies to support offenders during incarceration and prepare them for release, and Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (CBT), which addresses emotional and cognitive disorders to promote healthier decision-making. The facility also emphasizes Family Reunification, providing family counseling, parenting skills training, and services to support children of incarcerated parents. Victim Awareness programs aim to enhance understanding of the impact of crime, fostering empathy and responsibility. Additionally, Workforce Development offers vocational and educational training to prepare offenders for employment and a stable post-release life. Specific programs at the facility include GED and literacy training, vocational courses in trades like carpentry, plumbing, and welding, and computer and job application training. Faith-based and secular substance abuse programs, such as Celebrate Recovery and Alcoholics Anonymous, complement these efforts. Other initiatives include worship services, Bible study groups, offender choirs, and community outreach projects like the Angel Tree Christmas Gift Ministry and bicycle repair programs. Inmate and detainee inquiries can be made by calling (318) 259-8799 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., with the individual's biographical details readily available. While detainees cannot receive calls, urgent messages may be left by providing the detainee's name, alien registration number, and contact details for follow-up. Search the ICE Detainee Locator. Detainees cannot receive incoming calls. If you need to get in touch with a detainee to leave an urgent message, you must call (318) 259-8799 and leave the detainee's full name, alien registration number, and your name and telephone number where you can be reached. The detainee will be given your message. The Jackson Parish Correctional Center's comprehensive approach to rehabilitation underscores its commitment to fostering positive change, providing inmates with tools for personal growth, and strengthening their prospects for successful reentry into the community.
